Believe Patty, Friends Holed Up In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police searching for Patricia Hearst conducted a predawn raid on a Hollywood home, startling two women who were said to match descriptions of Miss Hearst and Symbionese Liberation Army fugitive Emily Harris.

Two sleepy women in pajamas emerged as a force of 50 to 60 police leveled shotguns and tear gas rifles at the house, but police Sgt. Gene Ingram said the women had no connection with the terrorist SLA.

He said police had acted on an anonymous tip, and that one of the women matched a rough description of Mrs. Harris, who is being sought along with her husband, William, and the newspaper heiress.

Meanwhile in San Francisco, the parents of Miss Hearst are said to be outraged by the comments of law officers who in the past week have said the young heiress is an armed and dangerous fugitive.

Cecil Poole, a former U.S. attorney who met with Randolph and Catherine Hearst on Thursday, said the parents of Patricia, 20, were furious about "the excessive statements of law enforcement personnel, particularly statements by the Los Angles district attorney."

Poole said he agreed with the Hearsts that the flood of "prejudicial" charges ought to be stopped, and said that to continue them might increase the chances that Miss Hearst, who was kidnaped more than 3½ months ago, would not surrender.

"She was a young girl who was kidnaped," said Poole of Patricia. "Something happened to her and now they are calling her a fugitive on the run."

Meanwhile, police and FBI agents continued without success their massive search for Miss Hearst and two Symbionese Liberation Army companions. Pleas for her to surrender increased.

"Throw away those guns!" urged the Hearst-owned San Francisco Examiner. "If you just let yourself be killed it is going to be a waste; your whole thing is going to be a waste," said a taped plea issued by Patricia's two younger sisters, Anne, 18, and Vicki, 17.

Referring to last Friday's fiery shootout in Los Angeles in which six SLA members died, Vicki said: "I just don't want that to happen to you." But she added: "I'm telling you right now the police and the FBI aren't all that sympathetic anymore. And they've taken a lot of trash from these guys (the SLA). And I just don't think they are going to sit around and take much more of it."

Felony charges including assault, robbery and kidnaping were filed Wednesday against Miss Hearst and the Harrises, a white couple the FBI has said are the last SLA members it seeks.

Meanwhile, one of Miss Hearsts' alleged victims testified for an hour Thursday as a federal grand jury opened its investigation of an April 15 SLA bank robbery in San Francisco. Police said Thomas Matthews, 18, was held captive for 12 hours last week by Miss Hearst and the Harrises when the three became involved in an alleged shoplifting attempt at a suburban Los Angeles sporting goods store.

Duke Ellington Succumbs At 75

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz bandleader and composer Duke Ellington died early today in Columbia Presbyterian Hospital after undergoing treatment for pneumonia. He was 75.

Ellington, who had been hosptalized for several months for a respiratory infection that developed into pneumonia, died at 3:10 a.m., according to a hospital spokesman.

Ellington had been unable to attend celebrations for his 75th birthday in New York last month. The celebration brought together 35 jazz groups and soloists in a tribute to the jazz master.

In February, Ellington had returned to Washington, where he grew up, and performed for several hundred inner city school children and Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Born Edward Kennedy Ellington, the "Duke" was known the world over and was the first jazz musician to receive the French Legion of Honor, an award he was presented in July of 1973.

Asked how many countries had given him awards, he replied:

"I never count awards. I only enjoy. I don't even count the bars when I write, do I? Oh, I guess I have to."

Ellington, a tall, urbane, baggy-eyed piano player, wrote more than 1,000 compositions. Among them are some that almost everybody can hum—"In My Solitude," "I Let A Song Go Out of My Heart," "Don't Get Around Much Any More," and dozens more.

In later years he poured out a prodigious stream of longer orchestral pieces, tone poems, sacred works, choral pieces, movie, television and ballet scores and even an opera or two.

He composed in taxicabs, in restaurants, on buses, and often worked until dawn after playing night club dates on his never-ending tours of the world.

"I'm in contact every night with people—live people, listening to my music," he said in the seventh decade of his life. "What reason would I have to retire from the road?"

President Nixon invited him to the White House on his 70th birthday and gave him the nation's highest civilian honor, the Medal of Freedom.

School Board OKs Superintendent's 5-Year Contract

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

After all was said and done, and much was, Fritz Jacobs was given a five-year contract to expire July 31, 1980. The motion was presented to the board by the personnel committee composed of board president, Dale DeLong and vice-president Thomas Elsea. The motion was seconded by Forrest Brown and was passed by a four to one vote.

Prior to the presentation of the motion and the vote, several interested citizens requested time and were allotted five minutes each. On Thursday afternoon, an injuntion was filed by Nancy K. Steele against the board of education to temporarily restrain it from holding its regular meeting.

A Columbus judge, Frederick T. Williams, denied the motion with a journal entry stating the court found the meeting scheduled Thursday evening to be a regularly scheduled meeting, a valid meeting and the board had not made an effort to keep it private.

James Kingsley spoke on the rights of the people of Circleville to know what is on the agenda before the board prior to the meeting. He said the free speech of the citizens and taxpayers in Circleville was hindered and asked the board to table any consideration to renew the superintendent's contract at that time. He indicated the group appearing in opposition of the renewal did not object to a contract on one year but a five-year contract would extend the superintendent's term beyond the terms of all the board members, three of which are up for re-election in 1975.

Former president of the board Robert Brehmer Jr. spoke on the good points of the administration. He said he had worked with Jacobs for ten years as president of the board and another ten years before he came to Circleville. He said what he saw was unjust criticism of a man who was doing an outstanding job. The fact that the school system was badly in need of money when Jacobs came was brought out and Brehmer told of the former administration that had tried to please everybody. The expansion and building programs initiated by Jacobs were commended.

Brehmer concluded his speech by saying that the school system had been accredited continuously since 1905. He said Jacobs had been "criticized for the firmnes that was really his greatest virtue."

Paul Sarchet, prinicpal at the Circleville High School, objected to the unfair generalizations of the VD, drugs, and alcohol problems which were indicated in the letter to the editor. He said he for one was very proud of the caliber of students in Circleville and he tried problems when they did arise as confidentially and personally as possible.

Donald Metzler lauded Jacobs for following the book and commended the programs in Circleville. He said it was true that the rapport between the teachers and the administration and the public and the administration was not a "relaxed country-club atmosphere." Two letters from former educators under this administration were read commending Jacobs' role.

The outstanding teachers in the system and the superintendent for recruiting them were commended by Ed Grigg who is also a former school board member. He too said the finances and building dollars have never been more useful than under the administration of Jacobs.

John Farthing, who was not on the agenda to speak requested time and was granted five minutes. He defended the letter to the editor and said it was just an invitation for the people to get involved in the school system.

To all this, Jacobs spoke. He said those who came in opposition of him need not fear he would hold it against them. The newly re-appointed superintendent said everybody can't like everybody and still have progress. He pointed out to those in the audience that the school system was not asking for any money and did not expect to for a long time and in observation he said nobody ever got this excited when taxes were being cut and buildings erected.

In regular board business, resignations were accepted from Linda Eiltz, half-time position in elementary and junior high music; Suzanne Berry, junior high art; Cynthia Hoffman, junior high English.

Approved for employment was Joyce Alkire, half-time secretary at Mound Street Elementary; Joyce O'Brien, high school girls' physical education; Wendy Jean McGee, junior high vocational home economics; Cathy Wine, junior high home economics; Marjorie Koch, Patricia K. Starkey and Susan G. Mathiason, elementary; Nancy Ann Evans, learning disability; Phillip Everett, high school math.

Extra-curricular activities were assigned as follows: high school GAA, high school girls' intramurals and girls' athletics, Joyce O'Brien; high school cheerleaders, Carol Parker.

Seven new textbook adoptions were approved as recommended by committees studying various books and authorized by the superintendent. New textbooks were adopted for Latin I, II, III and IV, metals II, speech, drawing II, math review, and English 7, 8, and 9.

The student insurance program through the Hummel and Plum Company was approved for renewal by the board. Prices were quoted to the board and accepted.

Jim Lint was granted authorization to attend the state track meet at the Ohio State University on May 24.

Advertising for bids for tennis courts was discussed at length by the board. The plans include four regulation courts along Clark Drive which will be open to the public. Specifications are ready from the architect and the board authorized the clerk to advertise for bids. Dates for advertising will include May 28, June 4, 11, and 18. Bid opening is scheduled for noon June 19.

The typewriter maintenance contract with Baker Typewriter, Lancaster, was renewed with a cost of $8 per machine plus parts.

An increase in the mileage paid for staff members who must travel in their position was approved from nine cents to 11 cents effective Sept. 1.

The following revised dress code was adopted: Students must wear slacks, trousers, jeans, skirts and dresses of reasonable appearance and of acceptable length. Shorts and hot pants of any length are not permitted except for grades K through 2.

Reasonable is based on the principal's judgment whose decision shall be final.

See Marsh New Ohio Labor Head

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Carpenters Union leader Milan Marsh of Youngstown took over the leadership of the Ohio AFL-CIO today, ending the 10-year reign of Frank W. King.

Final official vote totals from Thursday's balloting gave the ticket of Marsh and incumbent secretary-treasurer Warren J. Smith 3,014 votes to 1,801 for King's slate.

Smith said his entire slate of 34 vice presidents also won, giving the labor organization a "unified leadership."

The Marsh-Smith slate of executive board members included several from the previous board which had been split by a feud between King and Smith.

In accepting the presidency, Marsh told the convention delegates his goal was to unify the state organization.

Smith said Thursday that victory for his ticket would give the organization "a more effective, unified operation—particularly in political and legislative programs."

Weather

Variable cloudiness and cooler today, tonight and Saturday. High today near 70. Low tonight, 45. High Saturday, upper 60s. Probability of precipitation, 20 per cent today and 10 per cent tonight and tomorrow. Temperatures Thursday were: high, 80: low. 58.

Absenteeism Delays Vote On State Immunity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate has scheduled a vote Wednesday on a bill taking away the state's immunity from lawsuits. Heavy absenteeism delayed a planned vote Thursday.

Sen Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, asked that the vote be delayed when he noticed that only 20 of the 33 senators were present at the time. He said two others showed later.

"At the time it came up, I only counted 20 votes," he said. "I found out later the others were here."

The bill requires a two-thirds majority, or 22 votes, since it creates a new Court of Claims to replace the existing Sundry Claims Board.

Currently, the claims board hears cases against the state, which they sometimes pay as "moral obligations" since the state cannot be sued.

In other actions, the House finally concurred in Senate amendments to a bill allowing bars and taverns to sell lottery tickets. But the vote was close, despite the fact the only Senate amendment took an "s" from the word "chapters."

Rep. Charles L. Fry, K-75 Springfield, attempted to use the concurrence proposal to question about the possibility of kickbacks between tavern owners and the Ohio Lottery Commission, which will decide what bars can sell tickets.

Fry was finally cut off by House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, who noted that House rules limited debate to concurrence and not the bill itself. Fry was not present when the bill passed the House Feb. 28.

Concurrence failed on the first vote, 49-28, with 50 votes needed for passage. Late arrival Rep. William Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, provided the needed 50th vote. Later still, Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton, gave it 51.

Both houses passed three proposals before adjourning for the weekend.

The Senate approved 27-0 a bill to establish a municipal court in Auglaize County where two county courts were created following abolishment of justices of the peace in Ohio.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, said county commissioners asked for the new court partly because a judge could not be found to sit on one of the county court benches.

Senators also approved 20-9 a House bill permitting townships and municipalities to combine to contract for ambulance services. The bill goes back to the House for approval of Senate changes.

The Senate rejected 23-0 a conference committee report on a proposed constitutional resolution to permit the taxation of recreation lands on use rather than market value.

Sponsors said a new conference committee may be sought to resolve differences between the two houses. The House has insisted on an amendment that would deny the tax relief to any landowner practicing discrimination.

Another Senate bill, passed 21-7 would allow pawn brokers to increase their interest from 3 to 5 per cent on loans between $25 and $50. Currently they can charge 5 per cent on loans up to $25 but only 3 per cent on those above.

Passed in the House were bills that would:

—Simplify the method of qualifying hospital records as authentic evidence (84-0).

—Authorize contributions of county funds to non-profit organizations for services to aged residents (81-1).

—Allow funeral directors and embalmers to remove and preserve eyes from dead persons who have stipulated they wanted them donated as an antomical gift (85-0).

The House concurred in Senate amendments to bills speeding up licensing procedures for U.S. citizens graduated from foreign medical schools, providing improved detection methods of prevailing wage law violators, and providing that public buildings be constructed to accommodate the handicapped.

Both houses passed three proposals before adjourning for the weekend.

The Senate approved 27-0 a bill to establish a municipal court in Auglaize County where two county courts were created following abolishment of justices of the peace in Ohio.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, said county commissioners asked for the new court partly because a judge could not be found to sit on one of the county court benches.

Senators also approved 20-9 a House bill permitting townships and municipalities to combine to contract for ambulance services. The bill goes back to the House for approval of Senate changes.

The Senate rejected 23-0 a conference committee report on a proposed constitutional resolution to permit the taxation of recreation lands on use rather than market value.

Sponsors said a new conference committee may be sought to resolve differences between the two houses. The House has insisted on an amendment that would deny the tax relief to any landowner practicing discrimination.

Another Senate bill, passed 21-7 would allow pawn brokers to increase their interest from 3 to 5 per cent on loans between $25 and $50. Currently they can charge 5 per cent on loans up to $25 but only 3 per cent on those above.

Passed in the House were bills that would:

—Simplify the method of qualifying hospital records as authentic evidence (84-0).

—Authorize contributions of county funds to non-profit organizations for services to aged residents (81-1).

—Allow funeral directors and embalmers to remove and preserve eyes from dead persons who have stipulated they wanted them donated as an antomical gift (85-0).

The House concurred in Senate amendments to bills speeding up licensing procedures for U.S. citizens graduated from foreign medical schools, providing improved detection methods of prevailing wage law violators, and providing that public buildings be constructed to accommodate the handicapped.

Students must be clean shaven at all times and boys must keep their hair properly and neatly groomed. Hair length for boys is not to exceed below the earlobe on sides, below the eyebrows in front and not below the collar in back.

A basketball day camp to be sponsored in cooperation with the YMCA was discussed. The camp will include grades five through eight and will run June 24 through July 19. A fee for the camp will be $25 which will support the program. Applications are available through John Lawhorn and the YMCA.

The board approved a request to trade the recently purchased offset machine for two new duplicators, one electric and one manual, from Weiland Office Machines, Lancaster.

Secondary summer school was approved for English I, general science, general math and health. Dannie Fouts, Karen Bowers and Joyce Miller were approved for teachers in those classes. The program is available to students who need credit for eligibility to the Joint Vocational School and for those who could move from ninth grade to the high school by successfully completing a remedial summer course.

Supplemental duty assignments were approved for Steve Brudzinski, Stanley Spring, Richard Neel and Kester McCain at a fee of $700 to perform additional maintenance items as needed throughout the school year.

Painting contracts were awarded to Chester Hill for work totaling $860 at the junior high and $675 at the high school.

The board rescinded the previously awarded roofing bid to J. E. Peters for repair at South Court Street and Atwater. Because of the increase in the minimum wage the contract was deemed unfair.

Regularly scheduled meetings for June and July were changed due to conflicts. The next board meeting will be June 19 and the following meeting on July 11. The board also voted to change the time to 8 p.m. during the three summer months.

Authorization to investigate prices for a new master clock for the junior high was granted by the board. The present one was installed in 1917 and a repairman reported that 30 years is a long life for such a clock.

Early dismissal on June 6 was approved. Elementary dismissal on that date will be 2:15 and the junior and senior highs will dismiss at 2:45 p.m.

In final action before adjourning the meeting, the board voted unanimously to commend the band for its performances and to wish it well on the trip to the Indianapolis 500.

Long And Dangerous

Memorial Day will be observed on Monday, May 27, to produce a long weekend. As such it will generate more than the usual heavy holiday congestion on the highways.

An old warning needs repetition: Drive carefully.

Careful driving means much more than handling your own car well and safely. It entails also keeping a close watch on other drivers.

A reckless driver behind you, beside you or ahead of you can cause you just as much trouble as though you were driving recklessly.

Anticipate foolish moves of the other driver. If you are driving no faster than conditions or the law permits and are alert at all times, it should be possible to keep out of the way of the most careless nuisance on the road.

Watch for him at dangerous intersections; give him plenty of room when he tries a harebrained pass; wave him through when he rides your rear bumper.

If you don't expect everyone else to be as sensible as you are, you'll stand a better chance of getting yourself and your family home alive.

'Gone With The Wind'

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — NBC-TV has apparently paid $5,000,000 to M-G-M for a single showing of "Gone With the Wind." The classic film, which opened in 1939, will be televised some time in 1976. With commercials, it will run four hours. Sponsors will be asked to pay $200,000 a minute.

The $5,000,000 is by far the largest price ever paid by TV for one night's showing. The sum represents an investment of about 75 per cent of what we paid to Russia for the 571,065 square miles of Alaska, and a third of the cost of the Louisiana Purchase, which extended the borders of the Unied States from the Missippi to the Rockies.

(Around NBC there is little fear that President Nixon will preempt the prime time spot to announce that he will seek a third term. He clobbered ABC's heavily advertised and costly "QB-VII" screening with a last-minute decision to explain his tapes.)

Metro will be permitted to show "Gone" in movie theaters a year before the TV screening. It has been taken out of mothballs five times since the first go-around 35 years ago. Its popularity never wanes. The 1967 re-release boosted its lifetime earnings to $77,900,000 (it cost $3,900,000 to make) and it has now said to have sold 145,000,000 tickets. Metro also retains its right to show the film in theaters after the TV showing.

The TV showing will be a windfall for just about everybody except the estates of Clark Gable, Leslie Howard, Vivien Leigh, all those "killed" in the burning of Atlanta, and Margaret Mitchell. Residuals were largely unheard of when "Gone" was made.

As for darling Peggy Mitchell, she sold the picture rights to her immortal American novel for $50,000. Period.

James A. Farley, 1974 winner of Notre Dame's treasured Laetare Medal, enthralled his audience at the Waldorf with an account of his life in politics and his 35 post-political years with Coca-Cola. It was a feat of total recall, a remarkable summation of the times, lives, triumphs and disasters of a vast tapestry of Americana. It's a pity that his response to the conferring upon him by Father Theodore Hesburgh of the award, which dates back to 1883, could not be heard by history scholars across the land.

Big Jim, perhaps the last honest politician, breathed life into the images of Presidents, Popes, kings, king-makers, dictators, tycoons and common folk he met along the way. He thanked the long-gone constituents (Farley will be 86 "and holding," as he says in this space age, on May 30) who launched him on his political career by electing him town clerk of Stony Point, N.Y., in 1912. And he especially thanked a man who moved him into the big leagues of politics, Jimmy Walker.

He told of a meeting he had with Walker in Paris during Walker's troubles with New York's imperious Judge Samuel Seabury. A New York Times correspondent asked the two to pose. Walker, perhaps the most photographed politician of that time, demurred. He didn't think it would he a good thing for Farley, by then on his way to making Franklin Delano Roosevelt the President of the United States. Farley said nonsense, and the picture was taken. It appeared on the front page of the Times. Seabury had some harsh things to say about Farley for consorting with a man who had fled the country, and when he returned by ship Farley was questioned about the Seabury blast by reporters who had "gone down the Bay." One of them, Jim recalled the other night, was Jimmy Duffy of the N. Y. Telegram.

"I knew Jimmy well," Farley reminisced at the Waldorf. "He was the dean of that crowd. So I said to him, 'Jimmy, it's apparent that judge Seabury doesn't know what it means to have a friend.'"

Farley apologized about the length of his acceptance speech.

"I've gone to so many doggone banquets that I've become sensitive about the time the average speaker takes to get over a point. I tried to wrap mine up as quickly as I could, knowing it was getting late. In my confusion, I think I left out seven Presidents I have known. But I guess the memory of Mussolini helped me shorten it. I was received by him after he came into power and complimented him on the draining of the Pontine Marshes at some length. He seemed to be fascinated by what I had to say about the Marshes and the political situaton. It became a monologue. But then he put his hands on the arms of his office chair and half rose from it.

"When are you leaving Rome?" Mussolini said.

"I took the hint."

Find Ohio Man Guilty Of Murder

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — James W. Hall was found guilty of second-degree murder by a Johnson County District Court jury Thursday night.

Hall was accused of slaying Sarah Ann Ottens, a University of Iowa nursing student.

Defense attorney William Tucker said the verdict was "completely contrary to evidence" and said it will be appealed.

The jury of six men and six women returned the guilty verdict after deliberating about four and one-half hours.

Hall, 20, who was a U of I football player from Toledo, Ohio, was being held in Johnson County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond Thursday night. He had been free on $20,000 bond.

A bond reduction hearing was to be held Friday and a date for sentencing was expected to be set then.

Earlier Thursday, a witness in the trial changed her testimony and identified Hall as the man she saw at the door of a room where the body of Miss Ottens was found.

Rosemary Jones said fear prompted her to lie in court Tuesday when she claimed she could not tell who was at the door.

The body of Miss Ottens of Morrison, Ill., was found in a Rienow Hall dormitory room late on the night of March 13, 1973.

Set Rejection Of Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Liquor Control planned today to reject applications by Sportservice, Inc., for renewal of 19 liquor licenses, a spokesman said.

Sportservice operates outlets at six locations in Toledo, Cincinnati and the Cleveland area.

The department said it was acting under a section of the state Liquor Control Act that permits it to deny renewal if it finds good cause to do so.

The spokesman, Keith Cennamo, said the renewals were refused because the department believes Sportservice may be affiliated with the Emprise Corp., which has been under investigation by the federal government.

Sportservice has until June 24 to appeal the action and request a stay of the order.

Union Fails In OU Vote

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Student Workers Union failed to gain representation of student employes at Ohio University Thursday because an insufficient number of those eligible to vote cast ballots.

Officials said 799 students voted in favor of the union and 167 voted against. The number of ballots cast, including 128 challenges which were not counted and one ballot that was voided, totaled 1,095.

Under terms of the agreement setting up the election, 1,000 students must have voted for the balloting to be valid.

The university agreed to the representation election after the union conducted a three-day strike earlier this month.

The union agreed that it would not pursue the matter again for at least a year if it failed to win the election.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A heart attack is a shattering emotional experience. In a split second a forceful, active, productive personality is converted to a sick invalid.

Such is the saga of the involuntary, sudden admission into the not-so-exclusive "coronary club."

This "fraternal" organization drafts people from every social, economic and intellectual group.

A hectic, anxiety-ridden pattern of living, filled with excess tobacco, high cholesterol and unsuspected high blood pressure expands the size of the coronary club.

The tireless tycoon who could not possibly find any time to relax suddenly is transplanted into a hospital, with six full weeks of enforced bed rest ahead of him. No telephones, no smoking, a 900-calorie-a-day diet, and no visitors are some of the prerequisites for ultimate recovery.

At first, the coronary patient is overwhelmed by the stunning disaster. Anxiety and apprehension about himself and his family dominate the early phase of the acute attack.

With intensive medical care and constant reassurance, the initial impact is alleviated. He learns to adjust to the total dependence on nurses and family and the restrictions imposed on him.

Even in the very early stages of recovery, emotional rehabilitation must start if the patient is to be returned to society as a functioning human being. Unfortunately, far too many people are shackled by fear, and spend the rest of their lives as chronic cardiac invalids. Despite the total physical recovery from the heart attack, constant anxiety about the possibility of a recurrence dominates the lives of these post-cardiacs.

A coronary heart attack is a family affair. It takes the coordinated efforts of the doctors and members of the family to aid in the total physical and emotional reconstruction of a threatened life.

The greatest contibution that can be made by the family is to integrate the post-coronary into all phases of family life. He must be encouraged to resume all activities within the limits of physical and emotional activity prescribed for him.

A coronary experience may actually prolong life if it serves as a valuable warning to review and revise frenetic patterns of living.

True Friend

By JIM BISHOP

The most neglected of all articles of furniture, is, of course, the bed. Humans spend one-third of their lives in beds, seeking repose, ecstasy, the anesthesia of unconsciousness or yielding to the exhaustion of illness. A person 60 years of age has given 20 of them to an item which measures about six-and-a-half feet by five, and which squeaks.

Getting into bed has never been a problem. I slide between cool sheets in a T shirt and, in the past decade, have missed the edge of the mattress but once, falling on the family dog. He changed his bedroom from the rug to the bathroom scale, where he emits noisy sighs and drops his head on the treadle, causing a loud clanking of the weighing arm.

I have an enormous appreciation of the bed. It is the adult substitute for playground swings and monkey bars; a battery charger; a place of enormous life and the slow mists of death.

My problem is arising. Some pop out of bed, endangering somnolent blood vessels. These are the rise-and-shiners. I do not get out of bed, symbolically speaking. I resurrect.

Lifting my wooly head to a sitting posture requires thought, decisions and fake machismo. At this point, my feet hunt for Indian moccasins which are never where I left them. The walk to the bathroom for a.m. ablutions can be likened only to watching Dracula revive Dr. Faust 300 years after his death.

I realize that much of the world has been conditioned by the industrial complex to emerge from the rack at 7 a.m. or 7:30, humming old standards like Bach's Funeral Mass. In my case, the night light is extinguished at 2 a.m., and I arise, or am resurrected, by an insistent bell at 10 a.m.

Any personal friend who phones before 10 does not remain a friend. At 10, even the electric toothbrush sounds like a jackhammer on concrete. If the dog is still sleeping, I give him a tender boot in the pants so that he will understand that when the king is awake, no dog sleeps.

One of the most dismal aspects of awakening—to me—is to learn that all of the 200 bones in my body have separated during sleep and are not on speaking terms. Everything hurts. This includes hair.

Donning a robe is a triumph of tolerance. A robe can reduce a man to a whimpering wreck. If it also has a belt, the stomach joins the bones in pulsing protest.

The trip from the bedroom to the dining room might be understood by Sir Edmund Hillary, who climbed the last 10,000 feet of Everest. The difference between our efforts is that he did it once. He also carried a flag. I am a patriot, but not a nut.

The breakfast table, especially on weekends when the girls are home, is sheer anguish. Kelly, who looks ravishing in slacks and sports shirt, chirps about what a beautiful world it is. Confidentially, she doesn't feel that lively but, as long as mothers insist on competing with daughters, they must hide pain under spurious smiles.

Kathi reads and scratches. My kids never heard of cereals. They will warm up last night's beef stew and devour it with jelly tarts. Karen is always dressed for a wedding. She comes to breakfast in dress, pantyhose, shoes, slip, blue-figured dress and—hold your breath—a floppy straw hat the size of a flying saucer.

Fist under cheek, I look out the French doors past the swimming pool at the lagoon. I do not see them; I dream. It doesn't matter what, so long as it is more pleasant than the horrors which assailed me while I slept.

Within an hour—four cups of coffee and six cigarettes—I am among the living. With staggering self-assurance, I find out what day it is, and why. I consult the appointments calendar for columns. On order from my wife, my mouth opens like a pelican and I ingest an assortment of vitamins.

I ask Kelly how these small, colored objects know exactly where to go, and she says, "Don't worry. They know." There is the additional question of whether they know what to do when they get there, but I have been caught on that carousel before.

By 11:30, I am wide awake, prepared to say no to any suggestion. If it is a golfing day, my fellow agonizers—Milton Goldstandt, Gene Kroll, Jocko McCormack, Frank Sacchetti, Mike Morgan—arrive for coffee and a bit of dolorous dialogue on the state of the union.

If it isn't a gold day, it's a column and write-the-book day. In that case, Tom Ferris, an unfrocked press agent, is at the table with, perhaps, Len Bazell, an unfrocked rabbi-cum-author. Either way, it does not brighten the sun nor start a crisp, cool breeze.

My one true friend is that bed. I am not permitted to return to it, but I can dream of approaching it at 2 a.m. Then I will again slide between the sheets. My friend and I will exchange squeaks. We understand each other . . .

It's a pity that his response to the conferring upon him by Father Theodore Hesburgh of the award, which dates back to 1883, could not be heard by history scholars across the land.

Big Jim, perhaps the last honest politician, breathed life into the images of Presidents, Popes, kings, king-makers, dictators, tycoons and common folk he met along the way. He thanked the long-gone constituents (Farley will be 86 "and holding," as he says in this space age, on May 30) who launched him on his political career by electing him town clerk of Stony Point, N.Y., in 1912. And he especially thanked a man who moved him into the big leagues of politics, Jimmy Walker.

He told of a meeting he had with Walker in Paris during Walker's troubles with New York's imperious Judge Samuel Seabury. A New York Times correspondent asked the two to pose. Walker, perhaps the most photographed politician of that time, demurred. He didn't think it would he a good thing for Farley, by then on his way to making Franklin Delano Roosevelt the President of the United States. Farley said nonsense, and the picture was taken. It appeared on the front page of the Times. Seabury had some harsh things to say about Farley for consorting with a man who had fled the country, and when he returned by ship Farley was questioned about the Seabury blast by reporters who had "gone down the Bay." One of them, Jim recalled the other night, was Jimmy Duffy of the N. Y. Telegram.

"I knew Jimmy well," Farley reminisced at the Waldorf. "He was the dean of that crowd. So I said to him, 'Jimmy, it's apparent that judge Seabury doesn't know what it means to have a friend.'"

Farley apologized about the length of his acceptance speech.

"I've gone to so many doggone banquets that I've become sensitive about the time the average speaker takes to get over a point. I tried to wrap mine up as quickly as I could, knowing it was getting late. In my confusion, I think I left out seven Presidents I have known. But I guess the memory of Mussolini helped me shorten it. I was received by him after he came into power and complimented him on the draining of the Pontine Marshes at some length. He seemed to be fascinated by what I had to say about the Marshes and the political situaton. It became a monologue. But then he put his hands on the arms of his office chair and half rose from it.

"When are you leaving Rome?" Mussolini said.

"I took the hint."

Find Ohio Man Guilty Of Murder

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — James W. Hall was found guilty of second-degree murder by a Johnson County District Court jury Thursday night.

Hall was accused of slaying Sarah Ann Ottens, a University of Iowa nursing student.

Defense attorney William Tucker said the verdict was "completely contrary to evidence" and said it will be appealed.

The jury of six men and six women returned the guilty verdict after deliberating about four and one-half hours.

Hall, 20, who was a U of I football player from Toledo, Ohio, was being held in Johnson County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond Thursday night. He had been free on $20,000 bond.

A bond reduction hearing was to be held Friday and a date for sentencing was expected to be set then.

Earlier Thursday, a witness in the trial changed her testimony and identified Hall as the man she saw at the door of a room where the body of Miss Ottens was found.

Rosemary Jones said fear prompted her to lie in court Tuesday when she claimed she could not tell who was at the door.

The body of Miss Ottens of Morrison, Ill., was found in a Rienow Hall dormitory room late on the night of March 13, 1973.

Set Rejection Of Licenses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Liquor Control planned today to reject applications by Sportservice, Inc., for renewal of 19 liquor licenses, a spokesman said.

Sportservice operates outlets at six locations in Toledo, Cincinnati and the Cleveland area.

The department said it was acting under a section of the state Liquor Control Act that permits it to deny renewal if it finds good cause to do so.

The spokesman, Keith Cennamo, said the renewals were refused because the department believes Sportservice may be affiliated with the Emprise Corp., which has been under investigation by the federal government.

Sportservice has until June 24 to appeal the action and request a stay of the order.

Union Fails In OU Vote

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Student Workers Union failed to gain representation of student employes at Ohio University Thursday because an insufficient number of those eligible to vote cast ballots.

Officials said 799 students voted in favor of the union and 167 voted against. The number of ballots cast, including 128 challenges which were not counted and one ballot that was voided, totaled 1,095.

Under terms of the agreement setting up the election, 1,000 students must have voted for the balloting to be valid.

The university agreed to the representation election after the union conducted a three-day strike earlier this month.

The union agreed that it would not pursue the matter again for at least a year if it failed to win the election.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A heart attack is a shattering emotional experience. In a split second a forceful, active, productive personality is converted to a sick invalid.

Such is the saga of the involuntary, sudden admission into the not-so-exclusive "coronary club."

This "fraternal" organization drafts people from every social, economic and intellectual group.

A hectic, anxiety-ridden pattern of living, filled with excess tobacco, high cholesterol and unsuspected high blood pressure expands the size of the coronary club.

The tireless tycoon who could not possibly find any time to relax suddenly is transplanted into a hospital, with six full weeks of enforced bed rest ahead of him. No telephones, no smoking, a 900-calorie-a-day diet, and no visitors are some of the prerequisites for ultimate recovery.

At first, the coronary patient is overwhelmed by the stunning disaster. Anxiety and apprehension about himself and his family dominate the early phase of the acute attack.

With intensive medical care and constant reassurance, the initial impact is alleviated. He learns to adjust to the total dependence on nurses and family and the restrictions imposed on him.

Even in the very early stages of recovery, emotional rehabilitation must start if the patient is to be returned to society as a functioning human being. Unfortunately, far too many people are shackled by fear, and spend the rest of their lives as chronic cardiac invalids. Despite the total physical recovery from the heart attack, constant anxiety about the possibility of a recurrence dominates the lives of these post-cardiacs.

A coronary heart attack is a family affair. It takes the coordinated efforts of the doctors and members of the family to aid in the total physical and emotional reconstruction of a threatened life.

The greatest contibution that can be made by the family is to integrate the post-coronary into all phases of family life. He must be encouraged to resume all activities within the limits of physical and emotional activity prescribed for him.

A coronary experience may actually prolong life if it serves as a valuable warning to review and revise frenetic patterns of living.

True Friend

By JIM BISHOP

The most neglected of all articles of furniture, is, of course, the bed. Humans spend one-third of their lives in beds, seeking repose, ecstasy, the anesthesia of unconsciousness or yielding to the exhaustion of illness. A person 60 years of age has given 20 of them to an item which measures about six-and-a-half feet by five, and which squeaks.

Getting into bed has never been a problem. I slide between cool sheets in a T shirt and, in the past decade, have missed the edge of the mattress but once, falling on the family dog. He changed his bedroom from the rug to the bathroom scale, where he emits noisy sighs and drops his head on the treadle, causing a loud clanking of the weighing arm.

I have an enormous appreciation of the bed. It is the adult substitute for playground swings and monkey bars; a battery charger; a place of enormous life and the slow mists of death.

My problem is arising. Some pop out of bed, endangering somnolent blood vessels. These are the rise-and-shiners. I do not get out of bed, symbolically speaking. I resurrect.

Lifting my wooly head to a sitting posture requires thought, decisions and fake machismo. At this point, my feet hunt for Indian moccasins which are never where I left them. The walk to the bathroom for a.m. ablutions can be likened only to watching Dracula revive Dr. Faust 300 years after his death.

I realize that much of the world has been conditioned by the industrial complex to emerge from the rack at 7 a.m. or 7:30, humming old standards like Bach's Funeral Mass. In my case, the night light is extinguished at 2 a.m., and I arise, or am resurrected, by an insistent bell at 10 a.m.

Any personal friend who phones before 10 does not remain a friend. At 10, even the electric toothbrush sounds like a jackhammer on concrete. If the dog is still sleeping, I give him a tender boot in the pants so that he will understand that when the king is awake, no dog sleeps.

One of the most dismal aspects of awakening—to me—is to learn that all of the 200 bones in my body have separated during sleep and are not on speaking terms. Everything hurts. This includes hair.

Donning a robe is a triumph of tolerance. A robe can reduce a man to a whimpering wreck. If it also has a belt, the stomach joins the bones in pulsing protest.

The trip from the bedroom to the dining room might be understood by Sir Edmund Hillary, who climbed the last 10,000 feet of Everest. The difference between our efforts is that he did it once. He also carried a flag. I am a patriot, but not a nut.

The breakfast table, especially on weekends when the girls are home, is sheer anguish. Kelly, who looks ravishing in slacks and sports shirt, chirps about what a beautiful world it is. Confidentially, she doesn't feel that lively but, as long as mothers insist on competing with daughters, they must hide pain under spurious smiles.

Kathi reads and scratches. My kids never heard of cereals. They will warm up last night's beef stew and devour it with jelly tarts. Karen is always dressed for a wedding. She comes to breakfast in dress, pantyhose, shoes, slip, blue-figured dress and—hold your breath—a floppy straw hat the size of a flying saucer.

Fist under cheek, I look out the French doors past the swimming pool at the lagoon. I do not see them; I dream. It doesn't matter what, so long as it is more pleasant than the horrors which assailed me while I slept.

Within an hour—four cups of coffee and six cigarettes—I am among the living. With staggering self-assurance, I find out what day it is, and why. I consult the appointments calendar for columns. On order from my wife, my mouth opens like a pelican and I ingest an assortment of vitamins.

I ask Kelly how these small, colored objects know exactly where to go, and she says, "Don't worry. They know." There is the additional question of whether they know what to do when they get there, but I have been caught on that carousel before.

By 11:30, I am wide awake, prepared to say no to any suggestion. If it is a golfing day, my fellow agonizers—Milton Goldstandt, Gene Kroll, Jocko McCormack, Frank Sacchetti, Mike Morgan—arrive for coffee and a bit of dolorous dialogue on the state of the union.

If it isn't a gold day, it's a column and write-the-book day. In that case, Tom Ferris, an unfrocked press agent, is at the table with, perhaps, Len Bazell, an unfrocked rabbi-cum-author. Either way, it does not brighten the sun nor start a crisp, cool breeze.

My one true friend is that bed. I am not permitted to return to it, but I can dream of approaching it at 2 a.m. Then I will again slide between the sheets. My friend and I will exchange squeaks. We understand each other . . .

Perk Unhappy With Gilligan Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill in this election year contains a Cleveland item which doesn't exactly please Mayor Ralph J. Perk

Perk, the Republican nominee for U.S. Senate in the November election, raised his eyebrows at an appropriation that would have the state take over and operate two financially troubled Cleveland parks.

Gilligan asked the General Assembly for an outlay of $202,494 to restore Edgewater Beach and Gordon parks. The Department of Natural Resources would begin operating them in the summer of 1975.

Perk's initial reaction was that the Democratic governor, who also will be on the November ballot for re-election, is seeking to take over the city's "valuable lakefront property" and restore the parks "with money that came from Cleveland in the first place."

The governor's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill is to be financed with anticipated profits from the first year of state lottery operations.

Perk said he would rather have the state share the lottery proceeds with Cleveland and allow its officials and citizens to decide what to do with the money.

"That determination shouldn't be made by someone who lives in Columbus and Cincinnati," he said.

Former astronaut John Glenn's telling "Gold Star Mothers" speech the weekend before the May 7 primary election on the broadcast media went to the microphone with a $5,000 guaranteed donation by a Cleveland lawyer, Jack E. Dempsey, a former Navy pilot.

Dempsey pledged that amount for the radio blitz in reply to the accusation by interim U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum that Glenn had held no job for years.

Apparently other servicemen dug into their pockets to pay for the blitz because only $500 of Dempsey's money was needed.

The blitz was credited by some politicians with giving Glenn the Democratic nomination over Metzenbaum.

Minority members of the General Assembly sometimes vent their frustrations by making proposals even they know aren't going anywhere. Somehow, it seems to help.

Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton, offered the Democratic House Finance Committee an opportunity to back a minority party appropriations bill rather than introduce a new one of its own.

Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, thanked the Dayton Republican, but observed that, "It's just not politically practical."

"Well, when you don't have the horses you just have to depend on reasons," said Young, a wee bit sheepishly.

Perk Unhappy With Gilligan Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill in this election year contains a Cleveland item which doesn't exactly please Mayor Ralph J. Perk

Pe , he Republican nominee for U.S. Senate in the November election, raised his eyebrows at an appropriation that would have the state take over and operate two financially troubled Cleveland parks.

Gilligan asked the General Assembly for an outlay of $202,494 to restore Edgewater Beach and Gordon parks. The Department of Natural Resources would begin operating them in the summer of 1975.

Perk's initial reaction was that the Democratic governor, who also will be on the November ballot for re-election, is seeking to take over the city's "valuable lakefront property" and restore the parks "with money that came from Cleveland in the first place."

The governor's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill is to be financed with anticipated profits from the first year of state lottery operations.

Perk said he would rather have the state share the lottery proceeds with Cleveland and allow its officials and citizens to decide what to do with the money.

"That determination shouldn't be made by someone who lives in Columbus and Cincinnati," he said.

Former astronaut John Glenn's telling "Gold Star Mothers" speech the weekend before the May 7 primary election on the broadcast media went to the microphone with a $5,000 guaranteed donation by a Cleveland lawyer, Jack E. Dempsey, a former Navy pilot.

Dempsey pledged that amount for the radio blitz in reply to the accusation by interim U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum that Glenn had held no job for years.

Apparently other servicemen dug into their pockets to pay for the blitz because only $500 of Dempsey's money was needed.

The blitz was credited by some politicians with giving Glenn the Democratic nomination over Metzenbaum.

Minority members of the General Assembly sometimes vent their frustrations by making proposals even they know aren't going anywhere. Somehow, it seems to help.

Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton, offered the Democratic House Finance Committee an opportunity to back a minority party appropriations bill rather than introduce a new one of its own.

Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, thanked the Dayton Republican, but observed that, "It's just not politically practical."

"Well, when you don't have the horses you just have to depend on reasons," said Young, a wee bit sheepishly.

Children Visit Pontious Farm

Children from Head Start I and II recently visited the Jack Pontious farm where all came in contact, some for the first time, with real live farm animals.

The field trip began as each child helped in bottle feeding a baby lamb and later watched as the other animals were fed.

Most of the time was spent in the lot among the calves and goats where the children hand fed, petted and observed nursing by the baby goats. The farm also had other animals such as sheep, horses, chickens, pigs, kittens, ponies and colts.

Sack lunches provided by the parents were eaten at the close of the afternoon.

U.S. Escapes Blame For Apartheid

NEW YORK (AP) — A spiritual chieftain of blacks in South-West Africa, invited to take part in church criticisms of a U.S. firm operating in his homeland, had in contrast some words of praise.

"The Americans are doing their best by my people," Bishop Leonard N. Auala said in an interview. "The company men do not want to discriminate. Only because of the apartheid policies, they have to listen."

His gentle manner injected a moderating note—and some surprise—into the U.S. church case.

At the same time, however, he condemned the racial separation of apartheid, and said "my people suffer very low wages and difficult conditions. Pay should be according to skilled work, not according to skin."

Despite the problems, he said he strongly opposes efforts to get American firms to withdraw operations in protest to apartheid, saying such action would leave blacks jobless and without means of livelihood.

"Something is better than nothing," he said. "My people work for the Americans' and we are satisfied with those white people. They also are against apartheid, but have to follow South Africa's laws."

Bishop Auala, 65, heads the Evangelical Lutheran Ovambokavango Church in Namibia South-West Africa whose 330,000 members make up half the mainly black population of that disputed territory.

"My people want to be a free and independent nation, black and white together, hand in hand, one country," he said.

"Black people need white people and their skills. We're not against white people, only against discrimination."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Just A Baby At Heart?

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, have been married for 12 years, and have four children. (The youngest is seven.)

I breast fed all my children. At the same time I also breast fed my husband. He enjoyed it, and I didn't mind as I have had plenty of milk even when I was pregnant. I have long since quit breast feeding my youngest child, but my husband wants it nearly every day.

He is 44 and recently retired from the military. What worries me is this never-ending supply of milk I seem to have. I had a hysterectomy last year, and even that didn't dry me up. It doesn't bother me physically,but I keep wondering if I am normal. My husband thinks it's super. The older I get the more I worry about it, because I've never heard of this before. Have you?

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

DEAR NAME: Yes. All animals including humans, secrete milk as long as the mammary glands receive stimulation from sucking and emptying. Don't worry, you are normal. The abnormal one could be your husband, but as long as he's happy and you don't mind accommodating him, there's no problem. His hunger is probably more erotic than caloric.

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old son got some centerfolds out of old Playboy magazines and thumb-tacked six of them to his bedroom wall. My husband said the naked body is beautiful and we shouldn't say anything or our son might get the idea that nudity and sex are shameful. I disagree.

Who is right? We have always let him hang posters and anything else he wanted to put up in his room until this bunny bit came up.

CARNATION STATE

DEAR ACRNATION: I vote with your husband. In the future, keep your cotton-pickin' hands off Juniors cottontails.

DEAR ABBY: My in-laws have turned against me because when I was going steady with their son he got me pregnant. I was five months along when we got married. The baby is two years old now, and my mother-in-law has never seen him! My mother has called my mother-in-law trying to make friends with her, but my mother-in-law said she doesn't want anything to do with my mother or any of her family-including me.

I think it's terrible that my husband's mother has never accepted any of my invitations to come here and see her grandson or asked me to come over and bring him. We live only 20 minutes from each other.

My husband says that unless his mother apologizes to my mother, he doesn't care if he doesn't see her again. (His own mother, that is.)

How can I get our parents together? My husband AND I are happy. Why can't they be?

SAD ABOUT IT

DEAR SAD: Your husband's mother appears to be the one who's causing all the trouble, and until she changes her attitude, nothing else will change. It's very sad indeed. But the greatest loss is hers. Pray for her, and don't quit trying. I'll bet she'll mellow in time.

Ship Collision In Lake Erie Investigated

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard launched an investigation into the cause of the collision of two empty cargo vessels Thursday about 20 miles north of here on Lake Erie.

Both ships remained afloat following the accident, which injured two crewmen.

The 260-foot Canadian tanker Cardinal, with a large hole in its bow and listing, limped into North Bay Harbor at Pelee Island.

The 607-foot Cleveland-based bulk carrier Henry Steinbrenner, only slightly damaged, sailed to the Amship Corp. yards at Lorain.

The Coast Guard said the Cardinal, owned by Hall Corp. of Montreal, Que., and the Henry Steinbrenner, owned by Kinsman Marine Transit Co., both were headed for Detroit when they collided six miles northeast of Pelee Island in Canadian waters on a relatively calm lake.

The injured sailors, both crewmen on the Cardinal, were identified as John Prince, 25, of St. Catherines, Ont., and Andre Letourneau, 19, of Wellington, Ont.

They were flown to Wyandotte General Hospital near Detroit, where Prince admitted and listed in satisfactory condition and Letourneau was treated and released.

How DOES your garden grow?

The mystery of life and growth was one our daughter took for granted . . . until last summer when she "adopted" a flower bed all her own. Then she began to ask what makes her garden grow.

I once had a course in botany; I thought I knew all the answers. But none of them seemed to register with Mary.

So my wife took over the answering department. God makes things grow! That made much more sense to Mary.

Is it, after all, a contradiction of science to admit that we live in a world full of mysteries . . . mysteries that happen before our very eyes . . . mysteries that reveal the wondrous mind of the creator?

At graduation time, we fully realize that our sons and daughters need a spiritual foundation for all other knowledge. They will find it in the Church.

Ship Collision In Lake Erie Investigated

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard launched an investigation into the cause of the collision of two empty cargo vessels Thursday about 20 miles north of here on Lake Erie.

Both ships remained afloat following the accident, which injured two crewmen.

The 607-foot Cleveland-based bulk carrier Henry Steinbrenner, only slightly damaged, sailed to the Amship Corp. yards at Lorain.

The Coast Guard said the Cardinal, owned by Hall Corp. of Montreal, Que., and the Henry Steinbrenner, owned by Kinsman Marine Transit Co., both were headed for Detroit when they collided six miles northeast of Pelee Island in Canadian waters on a relatively calm lake.

The injured sailors, both crewmen on the Cardinal, were identified as John Prince, 25, of St. Catherines, Ont., and Andre Letourneau, 19, of Wellington, Ont.

They were flown to Wyandotte General Hospital near Detroit, where Prince admitted and listed in satisfactory condition and Letourneau was treated and released.

How DOES your garden grow?

The mystery of life and growth was one our daughter took for granted . . . until last summer when she "adopted" a flower bed all her own. Then she began to ask what makes her garden grow.

I once had a course in botany; I thought I knew all the answers. But none of them seemed to register with Mary.

So my wife took over the answering department. God makes things grow! That made much more sense to Mary.

Is it, after all, a contradiction of science to admit that we live in a world full of mysteries . . . mysteries that happen before our very eyes . . . mysteries that reveal the wondrous mind of the creator?

At graduation time, we fully realize that our sons and daughters need a spiritual foundation for all other knowledge. They will find it in the Church.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Saturday will be your last chance to stock up on books, records, or pictures for the Memorial Day holiday. The Library will be closed on Monday, May 27, 1974. Summer opening hours will begin Tuesday, May 28, 1974.

Only Western and science fiction fans will be interested in this week's new fiction arrivals. In "The Grudge" by Giles A. Lutz, the town of Abilene is resentful of the Huston family. When the town's leading citizen is found dead, Gradie Huston becomes the innocent target of blind mob vengeance.

In "Terror in Eagle Basin" by Cliff Farrell, Dan Cameron has renounced the violent life of a lawman and gone into a solitary retirement. The murder of his one-time partner forces him to buckle on his gun again and become involved in the violence of the tough cattle towns.

"An Apology for Rain" by Jean Mark Gawron is a science-fiction novel set in a confused and purposeless world, where disorganized factions wage uncertain war. Bonnie Wolfe sets out on a quest to find her elusive brother and a meaning for her existence.

Ian Macauley, an ingenious linguistics expert, is sent to join experts in other fields in John Brunner's "Total Eclipse." Their goal is to try to discover what happened to the highly intelligent beings, traces of whose civilization have been uncovered on a distant planet.

If you were faced with dying of starvation or eating the flesh of your dead comrades, what would you do? Piers Paul Read tells how sixteen survivors of an Andean air crash faced this problem in "Alive: The Story of the Andes Survivors." In October, 1972, a Fairchild F-227 carrying an amateur rugby team from Montevideo, Uruguay to Santiago, Chile, crashed in the Andean mountains. After eight days, the search for the downed plane was abandoned by the would-be rescuers. The survivors of the crash with no food, inadequate clothing for subzero temperatures, and no medical supplies faced terrible hardships and tragedy. Seventy days after the crash, two of the young men reached help after a ten day trek through almost impassable mountains. After you read this, you will probably be glad you are spending the holiday weekend at home.

In "Where He Leads", Dale Evans Rogers recounts how a journey to the place where Christ was born reinforced her faith.

If you are planning on getting married, and you believe in astrology, you may want to consult "Sybil Leek's Zodiac of Love." In this volume, Sybil Leek, the world's most famous witch, draws upon her thirty five years' experiences to provide an astrological guide to love, sex, and family life.

If you do plan to travel, you will want the latest information on food and lodging, where key credit cards are honored, and regional sightseeing suggestions. New 1974 Mobil Travel Guides on the Southeastern States, the Great Lakes Area, and the Middle Atlantic States have just arrived. The Southeastern States cover Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, and Tennessee. The Great Lakes Area includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin. Information about Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia is found in the Middle Atlantic States Guide. For your convenience, we have set up a special display of travel books in the Reference Room.

Hydroponics is a new subject heading appearing in the card catalog. Last week, we mentioned "The Indoor Water Gardener's How-to Handbook" by Peter Loewer. New this week is "Beginner's Guide to Hydroponics" by James Sholto Douglas. "Hydroponics" is usually defined as "the science of growing plants without using soil by feeding them on solutions of water and mineral salts." It is a complicated and technological process when used by the large commercial growers. However, Mr. Douglas claims that if you follow the simple new methods set forth in the book, any amateur can raise first-class plants without difficulty.

Other new books to interest gardeners or homeowners are: "House Beautiful's Gardening and Outdoor Living-1974 Edition; "House Beautiful's "Houses and Plans" 1974 Edition; "Better Homes and Gardens Kitchen and Family Room Ideas-1974"; and "The Williamsburg Collection of Antique Furnishings" by The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

New spoken records for those who would rather listen than read include: "Earth Day: A Celebration and Lament for Voice and Orchestra" read by Stacy Keach with the Philharmonia Orchestra; Kurt Vonnegut, Jr. reading his "Welcome to the Monkey House;" Joseph Heller reading "Catch 22"; and Michael Lewis reading Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt". Two play recordings are John Millington Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World" with Cyril Cusack and Siobhan McKenna and the London's Mermaid Theatre Production of "Misalliance" by Bernard Shaw.

BEREA, Ohio (AP)—Motorists will have no trouble getting gasoline on the Ohio Turnpike this holiday weekend, the Ohio Turnpike Commission said Thursday.

Atwater Principal Retires

At the end of this school year, the Circleville school system will lose a good and dedicated educator and administrator. Mrs. Mary Lamb submitted her resignation to the board of education nearly a month ago. She has been principal at the Atwater Elementary school since it opened in 1951. Mrs. Lamb has been a teacher and principal for 32 years and has spent all of those years in the Circleville system.

She received her education at Ohio Wesleyan and Kent State Universities. Before taking over the principalship at Atwater, Mrs. Lamb taught sixth and seventh grades in the old Corwin Street building. The old building has since been joined into the present junior high building.

The retiring teacher said her teaching experience had not been continuous because she took ten years from her career to raise her family. She and her husband, Sterling M. Lamb, Judge of Circleville Municipal Court, are the parents of two sons, Richard and Robert.

Without the daily schedule of the school atmosphere, Mrs. Lamb said she will have to readjust her life to the fact that she can do what she wants to when she wants to do it. She said she was going to spend her days of retirement doing things around her home at 7 Hanover Court in Knollwood Village that she never had time to do before. She also said she wanted to spend more time with her family which includes two grandchildren and just take life easy.

World Newsprint Pinch Hurts Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsprint producers have redirected tight paper supplies into a world auction in search of the highest bidders. And the move is causing concern in the newspaper publishing business.

In the United States, newsprint now costs $213 per ton, up from $175 per ton a year ago. A ton makes about 7,000 copies of a 24-page paper.

Some major suppliers of the U.S. companies have already announced that the price will go up again this summer.

Harold Anderson, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Asociation (ANPA) says price increases already have upset the normal cycle of doing business and additional hikes would cause "enormous budgetary problems" for American newspapers.

The United States is by far the world's biggest consumer of newsprint, using 11 million tons annually. Japan, the No. 2 consumer, uses 2.4 million tons a year.

In Europe, producers are successfully charging about $300 a ton and more for newsprint this year, compared with $200 a year ago. In South America, the price averages about $350 a ton; in the Middle East and India, prices for paper range up to $500 a ton; and in East Africa, where publishers pay the highest prices in the world, Canadian and Scandianavian producers command $700 a ton while black marketbrokers do a lively business at up to $840 a ton.

On July 1, Canadian and Scandinavian producers, the world's leading exporters, are raising their asking price as much as 20-25 per cent more worldwide.

What effect has the soaring prices had on newspapers?

A number of American papers have had to boost newstand and subscription rates.

In Brazil, Rio's O Jornal, once the flagship of Latin America's largest publishing empire, Chateaubriand Communications, closed in early May.

In Britain, the Beaverbrook publishing group, which includes the Daily Express, Sunday Express and London Evening Standard, says it is in serious financial trouble and recently closed the Glasgow Evening Citizen.

Many of Hong Kong's tipsheets on dogs, horses and local scandal have disappeared, correspondents say.

Executives of the world's troubled papers say sorting out the finances of a newspaper these days is getting more difficult and complex, and newsprint prices were only one of several factors.

Most newspapers have found that by raising newstand prices and advertising rates — which has happened worldwide in the last few months — they can stay afloat and make some, if a diminished, profit.

Conference On Aging Held In Columbus

The first day of the Governor's Conference on Aging was held Wednesday at the Lausche Building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The meeting opened at 12:30 p.m. after everyone had enjoyed free coffee and doughnuts. Approximately 3,000 were in attendance, from all over the state.

Sidney Spector, chairman of the Ohio Commission on Aging was the moderator for the program. Keynote address was given by Governor Gilligan who followed up his speech by a half hour of dialogue with the audience. Five microphones had been set up for the use of anyone who had questions for the Governor.

Following this open forum, Charles O'Dell, one of the five original members of the National Council of Senior Citizens, spoke, emphasizing the fact that a Conference such as this is what is needed for the elderly to make their needs and wishes known to the legislators. He urged everyone to contact their Senators and congressmen, both on a state and national level, telling them what they approved of and also disapproved of, and how they were affected by certain laws passed.

This speech was followed by another hour and a half of open forum with Spector fielding the questions and conducting the business of approving 3 resolutions which had been printed in advance. These had to do with use of Revenue Sharing money, housing for the elderly, and transportation. All three resolutions were passed unanimously and will be carried to the Thursday session of the Conference at which only voting delegates will be present.

Delegates have been appointed by County Commissioners on the basis of the percentage of population over age 60. Pickaway County has just one delegate, William L. Smith, 379 Markley Road. He is a vice-president of the Pickaway Council on Aging and was appointed two weeks ago by the Commissioners.

After the meeting was over, everyone was invited to the Rhodes Building nearby where a reception was held and everyone was greeted by the Governor and other State dignitaries.

Attending the Wednesday meeting were: Isabella Badger, Alice Scothorn, Miss Ethel Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Shriver, Peg Downs, Vera Saunders, Julia Conley and Twyla Lorentz. All but Mrs. Conley are members of the Pickaway Senior Center; Mr. Conley is Deputy director of PICCA.

MR Teachers Workshop Announced

It was announced today by R. L. Sayre, executive director of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, that plans for the fifth annual workshop for teachers of the mentally retarded have been completed.

The workshop is designed for teachers of the IMR and EMR students, but all teachers are invited to attend. The workshop will deal with curriculum development, music therapy, arts and crafts, language development, and physical education.

The dates are June 10 through 14 at the Ohio University, Chillicothe Campus, and the cost is $22 per quarter hour for undergraduate credit and $34 per quarter hour for graduate credit. Three quarter hours of credit will be given for the course. Classes will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Dr. Sayre stated that this has been a workshop designed by the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board for teachers and aides in the county mental retardation programs and has been a great success for the past four years. He further stated that this group, four years ago, developed the first curriculum guide for teachers working in the field of specialized education for exceptional children. This Board serves a five county area: Fayette, Highland, Pickaway, Pike, and Ross. Inquiries may be directed to the Board Office in Waverly, 947-5964 or the Continuing Education Department at the Chillicothe Branch, Ohio University.

Radiation To Be Probed

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)— The amount of radioactivity that will be released by the proposed Perry nuclear power station will be the subject next week of a public hearing here.

The Atomic Energy Commission's Atomic Safety and Licensing Board rejected a request Thursday by a citizens' group that site suitability hearings on the plant be postponed until this fall.

The Cleveland-based Coalition for Safe Nuclear Power made the request at a pre-hearing conference, asking that the session be combined with radiation hearings set for later this year.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and four other utilities are seeking a permit to begin construction of the $1.3 million facility which is scheduled to begin operating in the fall of 1979.

Gerald Charoff, a CEI lawyer, told the board the company wants limited construction authorization from the AEC to begin work by Oct. 23. After that date, the plant would need approval from the newly formed Ohio Power Siting Commission, and that would mean a delay of a year, he said.

The siting commission and the coalition contend that CEI's assumptions about the demand for electric power should be examined. A coalition spokesman has charged that the company creates much of the demand by advertising.

The coalition contended Thursday that if separate environmental hearings were held and limited construction on the plant begun, decisions on future objections it might raise could be prejudiced.

The coalition said it asked for the delay based on the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.'s change in plans for cooling the twin reactors. The company recently filed plans to replace a cooling system that would have dumped heated water into Lake Erie with a pair of closed cooling towers.

Conference On Aging Held In Columbus

The first day of the Governor's Conference on Aging was held Wednesday at the Lausche Building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The meeting opened at 12:30 p.m. after everyone had enjoyed free coffee and doughnuts. Approximately 3,000 were in attendance, from all over the state.

Sidney Spector, chairman of the Ohio Commission on Aging was the moderator for the program. Keynote address was given by Governor Gilligan who followed up his speech by a half hour of dialogue with the audience. Five microphones had been set up for the use of anyone who had questions for the Governor.

Following this open forum, Charles O'Dell, one of the five original members of the National Council of Senior Citizens, spoke, emphasizing the fact that a Conference such as this is what is needed for the elderly to make their needs and wishes known to the legislators. He urged everyone to contact their Senators and congressmen, both on a state and national level, telling them what they approved of and also disapproved of, and how they were affected by certain laws passed.

This speech was followed by another hour and a half of open forum with Spector fielding the questions and conducting the business of approving 3 resolutions which had been printed in advance. These had to do with use of Revenue Sharing money, housing for the elderly, and transportation. All three resolutions were passed unanimously and will be carried to the Thursday session of the Conference at which only voting delegates will be present.

Delegates have been appointed by County Commissioners on the basis of the percentage of population over age 60. Pickaway County has just one delegate, William L. Smith, 379 Markley Road. He is a vice-president of the Pickaway Council on Aging and was appointed two weeks ago by the Commissioners.

After the meeting was over, everyone was invited to the Rhodes Building nearby where a reception was held and everyone was greeted by the Governor and other State dignitaries.

Attending the Wednesday meeting were: Isabella Badger, Alice Scothorn, Miss Ethel Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Shriver, Peg Downs, Vera Saunders, Julia Conley and Twyla Lorentz. All but Mrs. Conley are members of the Pickaway Senior Center; Mr. Conley is Deputy director of PICCA.

MR Teachers Workshop Announced

It was announced today by R. L. Sayre, executive director of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, that plans for the fifth annual workshop for teachers of the mentally retarded have been completed.

The workshop is designed for teachers of the IMR and EMR students, but all teachers are invited to attend. The workshop will deal with curriculum development, music therapy, arts and crafts, language development, and physical education.

The dates are June 10 through 14 at the Ohio University, Chillicothe Campus, and the cost is $22 per quarter hour for undergraduate credit and $34 per quarter hour for graduate credit. Three quarter hours of credit will be given for the course. Classes will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Dr. Sayre stated that this has been a workshop designed by the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board for teachers and aides in the county mental retardation programs and has been a great success for the past four years. He further stated that this group, four years ago, developed the first curriculum guide for teachers working in the field of specialized education for exceptional children. This Board serves a five county area: Fayette, Highland, Pickaway, Pike, and Ross. Inquiries may be directed to the Board Office in Waverly, 947-5964 or the Continuing Education Department at the Chillicothe Branch, Ohio University.

Radiation To Be Probed

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)— The amount of radioactivity that will be released by the proposed Perry nuclear power station will be the subject next week of a public hearing here.

The Atomic Energy Commission's Atomic Safety and Licensing Board rejected a request Thursday by a citizens' group that site suitability hearings on the plant be postponed until this fall.

The Cleveland-based Coalition for Safe Nuclear Power made the request at a pre-hearing conference, asking that the session be combined with radiation hearings set for later this year.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and four other utilities are seeking a permit to begin construction of the $1.3 million facility which is scheduled to begin operating in the fall of 1979.

Gerald Charoff, a CEI lawyer, told the board the company wants limited construction authorization from the AEC to begin work by Oct. 23. After that date, the plant would need approval from the newly formed Ohio Power Siting Commission, and that would mean a delay of a year, he said.

The siting commission and the coalition contend that CEI's assumptions about the demand for electric power should be examined. A coalition spokesman has charged that the company creates much of the demand by advertising.

The coalition contended Thursday that if separate environmental hearings were held and limited construction on the plant begun, decisions on future objections it might raise could be prejudiced.

The coalition said it asked for the delay based on the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.'s change in plans for cooling the twin reactors. The company recently filed plans to replace a cooling system that would have dumped heated water into Lake Erie with a pair of closed cooling towers.

The Red And Black

12 Students Compose Red And Black Staff

By SUSAN ESTES
And MARGARET MERRILL

The people behind the bylines have worked hard this year to produce the "Red and Black" page. The staff is made up of two juniors and ten seniors.

Junior Becky Moorehead has helped with the photography this year and has written a lot of stories about girls' sports. When asked how she had benefited from being on the staff, she commented, "I got the opportunity to meet and talk with a lot of people."

Another junior on the staff is Sheri Smith. Sheri specialized in news stories and also helped with the photography. Sheri said that being on the staff "gave her the chance to know what was going on in the school."

Both Becky and Sheri hope to continue being on the staff next year. This has not been the standard procedure in previous years, however, Mrs. Lynn Kraus felt that their experience would be an asset to next year's paper.

First of the ten seniors on the staff is Tammy Miller. Tammy wrote mostly news stories and was a typist. Tammy said, "Good luck to next year's staff."

Another senior who helped with the typing was Cindy Sims. Cindy also wrote many sports stories. "It was a lot of fun and I urge everyone to support next year's paper," was Cindy's comment.

Also specializing in sports stories is senior Robin Martin. Robin commented, "The class was a lot of fun and it provided a lot of experience."

Another sports and news writer is Susan Estes. Susan also helped with photography. She said, "I'm glad we had such a gread advisor who helped us produce such a great paper."

Many personality features were written by Roni Keiser. When asked if she liked being on the Red and Black staff she answered, "I enjoyed it very much and felt it was well worth my time." Roni also helped with the typing.

Senior Margaret Merrill worked on junior high stories and wrote many feature stories. Margaret gives "thanks to Mrs. Kraus for making this paper possible and getting CHS its own paper."

Connie Forrest was another feature writer and helped type, too. "I had a lot of fun and got to meet many students I didn't know," said Connie. "Good luck to the staff next year and thanks to Mrs. Kraus, our advisor."

Writing band stories and typing for the paper was senior Brenda Goodman Seimer. Brenda commented, "It was a lot of work, but I enjoyed it very much."

Another band story writer was John Dowler. John also helped with photography. "I want to wish Becky, Sheri, and Mrs. Kraus good luck with the "Red and Black" and "Tiger Tracks".

Senior Rick Bumgarner wrote news and sports stories. He said, "It was cool that I could learn by doing things."

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Clark County Prosecutor James Berry says the Showboat drive-in theater is a public nuisance and he has asked a court to order its closing.

Eight Committees Compose CHS Student Council Body

By MARCIA PLESCIA

Behind the scenes of any large organization are the committees. The Circleville High School Student Council is no exception. Working for the student body this year were eight committees: assembly, dances, elections, projects, publicity, Pumpkin Show, student relations, and spirit.

Assembly Committee Chairman was Deanna Lowe. Helping Deanna was her co-chairman, Steve Watters. The committee was responsible for planning and presenting assemblies for Student Council throughout the year. As chairman, Deanne felt that both the performances and the audience had been well accepted during assemblies.

Chairman of the homecoming and dance committee was Kathy Uland. Her co-chairman was Audrey May. Both girls were busy this year scheduling and planning a number of dances. Homecoming was the first and biggest dance that they planned.

Tammy Miller was this year's chairman of the Elections committee. Members were Doug Palm and Brian Rooney. The job of the committee was to have petitions ready for candidates, make sure the signatures on the petitions were legal and included the needed number of names. Also Tammy was responsible for making and counting ballots.

This committee held the elections for the Miss Pumpkin Show candidates, homecoming queen and court, Student Council homeroom representatives, Student Council officers, and class officers, both at CHS and the junior high.

Projects Committee was responsible for sophomore orientation, tricycle races and other money-making projects. This year's chairman was Sheri Smith. Other members of her committee were Bruce Rickerd and Ben McDaniel.

Keeping the Student Council scrapbook up to date, making posters for Student Council events, and decorating bulletin boards in the study hall were jobs designated to Margaret Merrill and the Publicity Committee. Connie Forrest and Debbie Coey were the other members of this hard-working committee.

Margaret's comment about her job was "It's really a fun job and I wish more people would try out for the office next year."

A newly formed committee this year was in charge of the Pumpkin Show booth. Cheryl Brian and Cindy Hughes were designated to prepare the Student Council-SOS booth for the October festival. Not only were they in charge of cleaning the booth but they also set up work shifts, ordered supplies, and cleaned up after the event.

This year's Student Relations Committee was headed by Ben McDaniel. The main job of this committee was to change and up-date school policies. Two of this year's projects were to obtain a juke box for the school, to be used during lunch periods, and to check into the possibility of open exams.

Members of the committee included seniors Wade Camp, Brian Barthelmas, Ann Yates, and Kathy Uland; juniors Cindy Hughes, Diana Caruso, Dave Bevan, and Ben McDaniel; sophomores Jim Cordle, Linda Davies, and Mike McCoy.

Spirit Committee's largest responsibility was to increase school spirit. Marcia Plescia was Chairman of this committee with Kim Allison and Cathy Royster as co-chairmen. Membership of this committee was open to everyone.

Throughout the school year, this group has been responsible for planning and presenting pep rallies, painting spirit signs for the main hall, decorating the lockers of sports participants, making ribbons for the Tigers-of-the-Week and up-dating the S.C.O.L. Championship banner in the gym.

During the whole school year these dedicated students have worked hard. It was their efforts and the efforts of other Student Council members that helped to make the council a success.

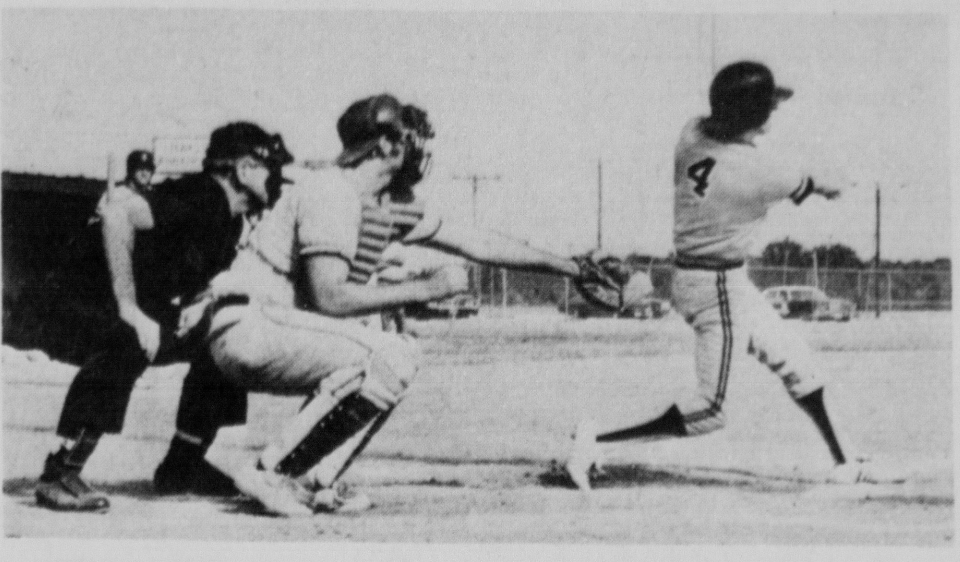
FH 2-Hitter Drops TV



ONE OF TWO—Terry Althaus, Teays Valley's right fielder, smacked a single against Franklin Heights lefty Tim Hoffman, only one of two hits allowed by the Falcon hurler. The Falcons were the only team to blank TV, a 2-0 shutout earlier in the year, and the only team to beat them twice.

Fate of the Metro League baseball title now rests with Grandview Heights after Franklin Heights knocked Teays Valley from the top spot with a 2-1 decision Thursday night.

The Vikings, after dropping Grandview earlier in the week, were deadlocked for the league crown with the Bobcats. Grandview, however, must win all its remaining three games for the crown.

Franklin Heights gained the early lead Thursday, scoring an unearned run in the top of the first inning and one in the sixth.

Teays Valley tallied once in the bottom of the sixth.

The Falcons Tim Hoffman and TV's Brad Stuthard were locked in a pitcher's duel during the 2 games. Both are lefties.

Hoffman fired a nifty two-hitter to earn the win. He walked a batter and fanned three.

Stuthard allowed only five hits. He walked three batters and fanned five.

Steve Williams and Terry Althaus smacked the only hits for the Vikings, both singles.

TV now has a 20-6 overall mark and a 10-3 league record.

A doubleheader with Columbus Hartley is on tap for tonight, starting at 5:30 p.m. on the Ashville diamond.

The McDowell School 7th and 8th grade reserve and first team softballers beat two teams from Teays Valley Wednesday to end their season.

The reserve team swamped the young Vikings 13-6 behind the pitching of Penny Fife.

McDowell exploded for seven runs in the first inning to gain the win.

In the game involving the schools' first teams, TV scored a run in the first inning to take an early lead. After both teams matched runs in the third, McDowell scored two unanswered runs in the fourth to take a 3-2 count.

The visiting Vikings scored three times in the top of seventh to regain the lead, but McDowell tallied four times for the 7-5 victory.

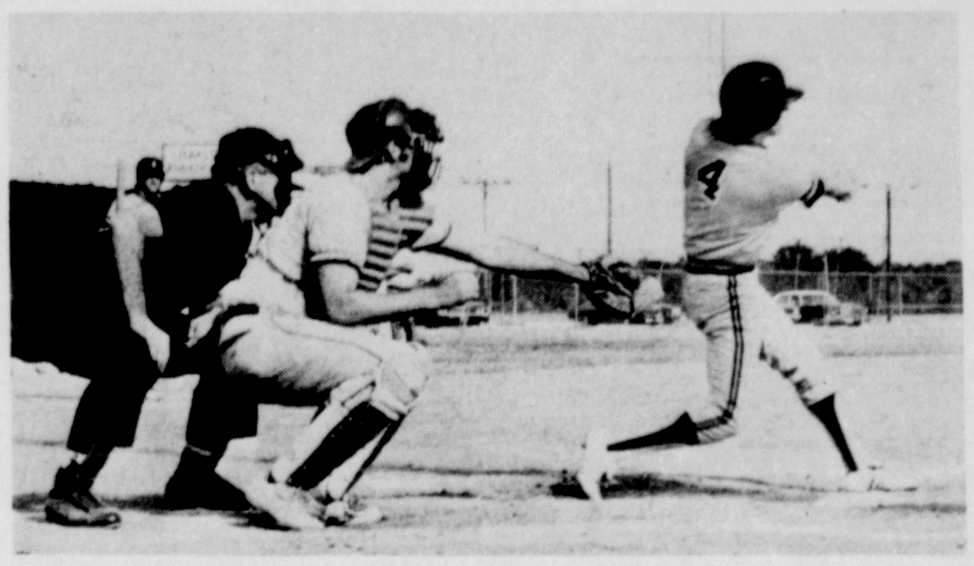
FH 2-Hitter Drops TV



ONE OF TWO—Terry Althaus, Teays Valley's right fielder, smacked a single against Franklin Heights lefty Tim Hoffman, only one of two hits allowed by the Falcon hurler. The Falcons were the only team to blank TV, a 2-0 shutout earlier in the year, and the only team to beat them twice.

Fate of the Metro League baseball title now rests with Grandview Heights after Franklin Heights knocked Teays Valley from the top spot with a 2-1 decision Thursday night.

The Vikings, after dropping Grandview earlier in the week, were deadlocked for the league crown with the Bobcats. Grandview, however, must win all its remaining three games for the crown.

Franklin Heights gained the early lead Thursday, scoring an unearned run in the top of the first inning and one in the sixth.

Teays Valley tallied once in the bottom of the sixth.

The Falcons Tim Hoffman and TV's Brad Stuthard were locked in a pitcher's duel during the 2 games. Both are lefties.

Hoffman fired a nifty two-hitter to earn the win. He walked a batter and fanned three.

Stuthard allowed only five hits. He walked three batters and fanned five.

Steve Williams and Terry Althaus smacked the only hits for the Vikings, both singles.

TV now has a 20-6 overall mark and a 10-3 league record.

A doubleheader with Columbus Hartley is on tap for tonight, starting at 5:30 p.m. on the Ashville diamond.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Strive to make ends meet in a surer, at least definitely improved manner. Balance the budget and conserve energies — with an eye to future needs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences indicate some complexities. However, your ability to move in tight spots and maintain equilibrium through heavy seas can see you through.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Neither routine nor other matters may turn out as planned, but overcoming difficulties is your forte. Plan each move step by step: weigh pros and cons.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Suggest a conference if you feel (or others do) that improvement would result. Be motivated only by your highest ideals, and faith in others' good will.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Make the most of your really bright ideas and concise, solid plans for achievement now. Accentuate positive thinking. Combine intuition with know-how.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You are one of those gifted persons who can produce original or unusual ideas when they are most needed. This is your day to shine.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Plan your schedule early, and only deviate where a better arrangement is presented or discovered. Apply brakes sensibly in pleasures, risky activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can have a productive, enjoyable day IF doing your best. But don't undertake a program so exacting that it leaves no time for relaxation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): With little planetary help, it will be up to you how to handle your responsibilities and how smartly you manage personal affairs. Accept obligations graciously, carry out promptly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Review movies of the past week. Correct where need be for more effective endeavor in the days ahead. Use your wit and cleverness where they will do the most good.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Tread lightly were there is friction; hold the line against pessimism; recognize where improvements can be made — and make them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Know what is expected of you and strive in your finest manner. An extraordinary stroke of proficiency at a telling moment could increase your prestige.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, a lively imagination and unusual adaptability. Your governing planet, Mercury, bestows mental alertness, versatility and a leaning toward the intellectual. You love travel, music and literature in all its forms; in fact, could excel in writing, journalism; would make an excellent reporter, editor or promotion expert. There is a great deal of the dreamer about you, and this may lead to an extraordinary interest in the mystic and the occult. Faults to overcome: extravagance, moodiness and restlessness which causes you to scatter energies. Birthdate of: Ralph Waldo Emerson, Amer. essayist.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Strive to make ends meet in a surer, at least definitely improved manner. Balance the budget and conserve energies — with an eye to future needs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences indicate some complexities. However, your ability to move in tight spots and maintain equilibrium through heavy seas can see you through.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Neither routine nor other matters may turn out as planned, but overcoming difficulties is your forte. Plan each move step by step: weigh pros and cons.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Suggest a conference if you feel (or others do) that improvement would result. Be motivated only by your highest ideals, and faith in others' good will.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Make the most of your really bright ideas and concise, solid plans for achievement now. Accentuate positive thinking. Combine intuition with know-how.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You are one of those gifted persons who can produce original or unusual ideas when they are most needed. This is your day to shine.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Plan your schedule early, and only deviate where a better arrangement is presented or discovered. Apply brakes sensibly in pleasures, risky activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can have a productive, enjoyable day IF doing your best. But don't undertake a program so exacting that it leaves no time for relaxation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): With little planetary help, it will be up to you how to handle your responsibilities and how smartly you manage personal affairs. Accept obligations graciously, carry out promptly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Review movies of the past week. Correct where need be for more effective endeavor in the days ahead. Use your wit and cleverness where they will do the most good.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Tread lightly were there is friction; hold the line against pessimism; recognize where improvements can be made — and make them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Know what is expected of you and strive in your finest manner. An extraordinary stroke of proficiency at a telling moment could increase your prestige.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, a lively imagination and unusual adaptability. Your governing planet, Mercury, bestows mental alertness, versatility and a leaning toward the intellectual. You love travel, music and literature in all its forms; in fact, could excel in writing, journalism; would make an excellent reporter, editor or promotion expert. There is a great deal of the dreamer about you, and this may lead to an extraordinary interest in the mystic and the occult. Faults to overcome: extravagance, moodiness and restlessness which causes you to scatter energies. Birthdate of: Ralph Waldo Emerson, Amer. essayist.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Circleville Chamber Orchestra Presents First Concert

ROUNDTOWN MUSICIANS—Taking another step in the advancement of music appreciation in Circleville is the interest in the Chamber Orchestra, directed by Mrs. Clara Teegardin. The members will present a concert "Four Centuries of Music" 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Memorial Hall. Any donations will be used towards the purchasing of music for further concerts.

By BOB BENSONHAVER
Herald Staff Writer

The first concert of the Circleville Chamber Orchestra, directed by Mrs. Clara Teegardin, will be 8 p.m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

The theme of the concert is "Four Centuries of Music", beginning with the 17th Century ending with the 20th Century.

The orchestra began by accompanying the Roundtown Players in musicals such as, "Gypsy," "My Fair Lady" and "South Paciffic." Through the continued efforts of Mrs. Teegardin and the support of interested citizens, the musicians remained together.

Rehearsing every Sunday at the St. Philip's Church, the orchestra keeps adding new members and wishes to include new prospects involving a variety of instruments.

"The people are really excited about the orchestra", commented Mrs. Teegardin, "Members purchased their own music for this concert".

"We hope to continue the orchestra on a permanent basis", she continued, "Hopefully, in the future, we can perform show music, sing-alongs, and include vocal and instrumental soloists along with the classical music."

Members include high school students, college students, parents, and any interested persons. Some have performed in college and professional orchestras before moving to Circleville, which did not have a chamber orchestra.

Wednesday's program includes, "Christmas Concerto" by Torelli and Corelli's "Sonata", both from the 17th Century.

Eighteenth Century selections are Jean Rameau's "Suite"; "Overture" by George Handel; "Menuetto from Symphony No. 54, (Imperial)," by Joseph Haydn and Mozart's "Divertimento (1st Movement).

Schubert's "Sonatino (1st Movement)"; Mendelssohn's "Adagio from Symphony No 3 (Scotch)"; Liszt's Consolation No. 3" and Tchaikovsky's "Song of the Reapers" are the compositions from the 19th Century.

Twentieth Century music includes the "Traditional Airs" from "For Children" by Bela Bartok.

The orchestra will conclude the program with Johann S. Bach's "Brandenburgisches Konzert Nr. 2, BWV 1047 Partitur-Urtext."

Persons who have an ear for classical music will thoroughtly enjoy the first, and centainly not the last, of musical concerts.

There is no charge for admission but any donations will be appreciated.

Rabin Set To Announce New Cabinet

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin announced today that he had formed a government, replacing Golda Meir's, and hoped to name his cabinet by Saturday night.

Rabin, a former chief of staff and ambassador to Washington, said his cabinet would then be presented to parliament next week.

Rabin, 52, told President Ephraim Katzir he had taken longer than the 21 days authorized to form a cabinet because he had been busy with the Israeli team negotiating with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to end the war with Syria.

In a brief statement to newsmen after his meeting with Katzir, Rabin made no hint as to the makeup of his cabinet.

Political insiders said Deputy Premier Yigal Allon of the outgoing government was expected to get the foreign minister post while the Defense Ministry job would go to Shimon Peres, a close friend of outgoing Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Rabin is considered a representative of the more dovish left wing of the Labor party, which advocates greater territorial concessions to the Arabs than Mrs. Meir has been willing to offer.

Dayan, who has been severely criticized for his handling of the October Middle East war, was expected to be excluded from the cabinet.

The political future of caretaker Foreign Minister Abba Eban also seemed in doubt after he informed Rabin he "does not wish to join the new government about to be formed."

Circleville Chamber Orchestra Presents First Concert

ROUNDTOWN MUSICIANS—Taking another step in the advancement of music appreciation in Circleville is the interest in the Chamber Orchestra, directed by Mrs. Clara Teegardin. The members will present a concert "Four Centuries of Music" 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Memorial Hall. Any donations will be used towards the purchasing of music for further concerts.

By BOB BENSONHAVER
Herald Staff Writer

The first concert of the Circleville Chamber Orchestra, directed by Mrs. Clara Teegardin, will be 8 p.m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

The theme of the concert is "Four Centuries of Music", beginning with the 17th Century ending with the 20th Century.

The orchestra began by accompanying the Roundtown Players in musicals such as, "Gypsy," "My Fair Lady" and "South Paciffic." Through the continued efforts of Mrs. Teegardin and the support of interested citizens, the musicians remained together.

Rehearsing every Sunday at the St. Philip's Church, the orchestra keeps adding new members and wishes to include new prospects involving a variety of instruments.

"The people are really excited about the orchestra", commented Mrs. Teegardin, "Members purchased their own music for this concert".

"We hope to continue the orchestra on a permanent basis", she continued, "Hopefully, in the future, we can perform show music, sing-a-longs, and include vocal and instrumental soloists along with the classical music."

Members include high school students, college students, parents, and any interested persons. Some have performed in college and professional orchestras before moving to Circleville, which did not have a chamber orchestra.

Wednesday's program includes, "Christmas Concerto" by Torelli and Corelli's "Sonata", both from the 17th Century.

Eighteenth Century selections are Jean Rameau's "Suite"; "Overture" by George Handel; "Menuetto from Symphony No. 54, (Imperial)," by Joseph Haydn and Mozart's "Divertimento (1st Movement).

Schubert's "Sonatino (1st Movement)"; Mendelssohn's "Adagio from Symphony No 3 (Scotch)"; Liszt's Consolation No. 3" and Tchaikovsky's "Song of the Reapers" are the compositions from the 19th Century.

Twentieth Century music includes the "Traditional Airs" from "For Children" by Bela Bartok.

The orchestra will conclude the program with Johann S. Bach's "Brandenburgisches Konzert Nr. 2, BWV 1047 Partitur-Urtext."

Persons who have an ear for classical music will thoroughtly enjoy the first, and centainly not the last, of musical concerts.

There is no charge for admission but any donations will be appreciated.

Rabin Set To Announce New Cabinet

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin announced today that he had formed a government, replacing Golda Meir's, and hoped to name his cabinet by Saturday night.

Rabin, a former chief of staff and ambassador to Washington, said his cabinet would then be presented to parliament next week.

Rabin, 52, told President Ephraim Katzir he had taken longer than the 21 days authorized to form a cabinet because he had been busy with the Israeli team negotiating with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to end the war with Syria.

In a brief statement to newsmen after his meeting with Katzir, Rabin made no hint as to the makeup of his cabinet.

Political insiders said Deputy Premier Yigal Allon of the outgoing government was expected to get the foreign minister post while the Defense Ministry job would go to Shimon Peres, a close friend of outgoing Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Rabin is considered a representative of the more dovish left wing of the Labor party, which advocates greater territorial concessions to the Arabs than Mrs. Meir has been willing to offer.

Dayan, who has been severely criticized for his handling of the October Middle East war, was expected to be excluded from the cabinet.

The political future of caretaker Foreign Minister Abba Eban also seemed in doubt after he informed Rabin he "does not wish to join the new government about to be formed."

WHY BUY A MOBILE HOME?

Not only do mobile homes cost considerable less per square foot than conventional homes, they are more convenient to finance. They are offered in countless varieties of style, decor, and floorplans, and can be delivered and set up in the shortest period of time.

Mobile homes have comfortable and fully furnished interiors, as elegant as the individual budget can afford, and as large as 1440 square feet.

Mobile homes are easier and less expensive to maintain.

And, mobile home parks have evolved into permanent and attractive communities.

Although mobile homes satisfy all age groups as permanent housing, two groups in particular account for the largest percentage of the industry's sales. The under-30, and over-60 age groups are prime mobile home buyers, and are the fastest-growing age groups in the mobile home economy.

Fertilizer Beats Salt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indianapolis woman has come up with her own solution to the problem of having salt tracked into her house during the winter.

Instead of using salt to melt ice on sidewalks, Thelma Miller sprinkles fertilizer.

Mrs. Miller says the fertilizer sweeps off rugs much more easily than salt. And in the spring, the lawn alongside the walks is much greener.

Last winter some of the fertilizer washed onto nearby strawberry beds, Mrs. Miller said, and "Boy, did we have good, big strawberries!"

Mrs. Gilligan Pushes Effort For Retarded

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Katie Gilligan, wife of the governor, said Tuesday night that Ohio has come a long way in its programs for the retarded, but the job is not finished.

"As long as there is one child on a waiting list for a special education program, or lost in an institution for lack of training...we haven't worked hard enough," she told the Montgomery County Council for Retarded Children.

Delivering the keynote address at the council's annual dinner, Mrs. Gilligan said, "We can't transform a state in just four years, but I think we have made each other aware of how much it's possible to do by caring about each other."

She said only government has the resources to help most children who have special problems. "To me, that's what government is all about—doing for people what they can't do for themselves."

Mrs. Gilligan praised the council and concerned citizens throughout the state who she said brought about changes in government programs for the retarded.

"You are the ones who have lobbied and nagged and worked endless hours to finally see a beginning," she said.

"It is because of people like you that retarded children born today have obtained the right to learn and achieve."

Dolley Madison (wife of President James Madison) presided at the first inaugural ball in 1809, took part in the dedication of the Washington monument and sent the first personal message over S.F.B. Morse's telegraph wire.

Extra Weight But No Recompense

LONDON (AP) – Harold Lever, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Socialist cabinet, is doing the job for nothing.

Chancelor of the Duchy of Lancaster is a catch-all office whose holder can be used in any sector of government where extra weight is needed. Lever was appointed as economic adviser to Wilson.

But there is a statutory limit of 19 to the number of cabinet ministers, who are paid 13,000 pounds — around $30,000 — a year. And there were already 19.

Wilson was so keen to have Lever in his cabinet, however, that Lever volunteered to do the job with no ministerial salary. All he'll get will be the 4,500 pounds — $10,350 — a year paid to ordinary members of Parliament.

Lever won't starve. He is a wealthy man in his own right and is married to a Lebanese heiress.

Former Policemen Seek $3 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — An over-the-hill gang of former Chicago policemen is out to get $3 million in back wages from the city. But there doesn't appear to be much hope.

"Our bunch numbers about 1,500 and we think the city owes us about $3 million it took out of our pay checks in the Great Depression years of the 1930s," said Abner Bender, ringleader of the over-70 group.

"If we are going to get the money it had better be soon — a lot of us won't be around much longer," he said. "Maybe we should be called the under-the-gun gang."

Bender, 74, was on the Chicago police force from 1922 until retiring in 1950. His group has hired attorney John Cusak Jr. to push its case.

"Back in the Depression the city simply didn't appropriate the money to meet the full paychecks, it didn't have the money to give," Cusak said. "There isn't too much hope of getting it now, but we are researching the entire legal question."

"Almost every payday the city would withhold $10, $15 or even $20 from our paychecks," Bender said. "They said we would get our money back later, but we never did. In those days patrolmen got $99.21 every two weeks. We didn't quit and get another job because there weren't any."

He figures those still alive — including widows — are entitled to about $2,150 each.

Henry Weber, Chicago corporation counsel, shudders at legal problems involved.

"For instance, the heirs of dead policemen might sue the city for money," he said. "They could contend Chicago was discriminating against men who had died before it decided to pay."

Weber and Cusak agree the case comes under the doctrine of laches, which holds that a lawsuit must be filed within a reasonable period of time. But Cusak adds:

"I think the old timers are getting a kick out of the whole thing. But it is typical at this juncture to try to get them something or put the matter to rest for always."

Sparling To Attempt New Bid For Election

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Republican James Sparling Jr., who lost a special election in Michigan's 8th Congressional District last month, says he will try again for the seat in November. Sparling was defeated by Democrat Bob Traxler for a seat Republicans had held since 1932.

South Vietnam Military Aid Boost All But Dead In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's effort to boost military aid to South Vietnam has lost what may be its last hope in Congress.

The House refused Wednesday either to raise or lower present Vietnam aid in a $22.6-billion weapons authorization bill it passed 358 to 37 and sent to the Senate.

A similar bill awaiting Senate action would cut the present $1.126 billion Vietnam aid to $900 million.

At the same time, House-Senate conferees reported out a separate $769 million supplemental military bill recommending rejection of the Pentagon's request to increase Vietnam aid by $266 million through a bookkeeping transfer.

The House also rejected amendemtns to phase out 100,000 U.S. troops overseas and to cut the $22.6 billion weapons bill by $733 million across the board.

An amendment by Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., to cut the Vietnam aid to $1 billion was rejected 211 to 190.

But Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., abandoned his House Armed Services Committee's proposal to boost the aid to $1.4 billion because of heavy House opposition and moved instead to keep the aid at the present level.

Hebert's motion was approved by voice vote.

The amendment to phase out 100,000 of the 435,000 U.S. ground troops overseas in 18 months was proposed by House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and rejected 240 to 163 after a debate that split Democratic leaders.
